The University of Northern Iowa honors the ancestral stewards of the land on which our university rests. Among these stewards are the Báxoje or Bah Kho-Je (Iowa), oθaakiiwaki·hina·ki (Sauk) and Meškwahki·aša·hina (Fox), Očhéthi Šakówiŋ (Sioux), Umó'ho' (Omaha), and Hochaꝥ (Ho-Chunk), as well as those tribal nations who are contemporary caretakers of land in Iowa, including the Meskwaki: Sac and Fox Tribe of the Mississippi in Iowa.

The Academic Procession

The procession begins with the entrance of the candidates for degrees. Led by faculty marshals, the candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, both the Teaching Program and the Liberal Arts Program, Bachelor of Fine Arts, Bachelor of Liberal Studies, Bachelor of Music and Bachelor of Science enter in groups, representing each of the undergraduate colleges. They are followed by the candidates for the highest degrees.

Students wearing a bronze medallion are those graduating Summa Cum Laude (with highest honors), which represent the top three percent of each college by grade point average; or those graduating students receiving a Purple and Old Gold Award, given to those students who have excelled in scholarship or who have shown conspicuous achievement in particular areas.

The procession continues with representatives of the faculty.

The President's Party forms the final section of the academic procession. Headed by the commencement marshal, it includes the president; members of the Board of Regents, State of Iowa; administrative officers; the academic deans; and honored guests.

The individuals leading the procession of the graduates, the faculty and the president's party carry a mace which is a symbol of office. Those individuals are the student body president, the chair of the faculty and the university commencement marshal. Over long tradition, a mace is a symbol of authority and official celebration. The university mace is the largest of the three maces and it embodies the history and dignity of the entire university. The president wears a jeweled "Chain of Office" symbolizing the wearer is the leader of the institution. The silver chain includes links with the names of previous presidents of the institution, as well as previous names of the university.

The academic costumes worn trace their origin to the Middle Ages when long-sleeved hooded gowns were necessary for warmth in the unheated stone colleges. Over the centuries, much diversity occurred, and to bring some order, in the United States in 1894 an intercollegiate system of academic costume was agreed on, now adhered to by American institutions. According to this code, both the styling and colors of the regalia have significance.

The design of the gown indicates the degree. The bachelor's is a simple gown with a full sleeve. The master's gown is much like it except for the long sleeve which hangs loose. The doctoral gown is fuller and more elaborate. It has velvet edging and three velvet stripes on the full sleeve. The color of this velvet may be black or in the color appropriate to the degree.

Hoods, which are worn over the gowns, are similar for all degrees, although differing slightly in length. The candidates for the bachelor's degrees usually do not wear the hood. The hood has a velvet edging which indicates the area of the degree, and the inside or lining of the hood is satin in the colors of the college or university granting the degree.

A partial list of the degree colors to be found on the edge of the hood or the trimming on the doctoral gown is as follows:

- Apricot - Nursing
- Drab - Business
- Orange - Engineering
- Blue, dark - Philosophy
- Green - Medicine
- Pink - Music
- Blue, light - Education
- Green Sage - Physical Education
- Purple - Law
- Brown - Fine Arts
- Lemon - Library Science
- Scarlet - Theology
- Citron - Social Science
- Maize - Agriculture
- White - Arts and Letters
- Copper - Economics
- Maroon - Family
- Yellow Golden - Science and Consumer Sciences

Jerrell has been involved in several organizations including Black Student Union, Ethnic Student Promoters (as president), UNIDOS, and the Thrive mentoring program. He has worked in Housing and Dining as an office assistant and in the Department of Diversity, Inclusion & Social Justice as a student program coordinator. She served on the Student Leadership Council hosted by the Dean of the College of Education, the College of Education Dean Search, and the College of Education Diversity, Equity, & Inclusion Committee. These opportunities allowed her to lift the voices of underrepresented communities while educating those in positions of power. Her lasting legacy will be the countless students she has impacted in and out of the classroom.

Honorary Degree

The University of Northern Iowa awards honorary degrees to individuals in recognition of outstanding achievements and attainments which exemplify the goals and the ideals of the University.

John R. Dinger

John R. Dinger was born May 27, 1952, in Charles City, Iowa, and grew up in Riceville, Iowa, with his siblings, Larry and Jan. His father was a carpenter and his mother a high school teacher. He has described his childhood in Riceville as “idyllic,” with life revolving around school activities and church youth group meetings. Dinger graduated from Riceville High School in 1970. Self-described as an “undistinguished” high school student, he quickly settled into campus life at UNI, studying hard and doing well in his classes. He graduated from UNI in 1974 with a political science major and French minor. As he neared graduation, he met with Dr. Robert Ross, the head of the political science department, who encouraged him to consider applying to the U.S. Foreign Service. Dinger had never heard of the Foreign Service, but he was intrigued. He took the required exam and within a year had been accepted into the Foreign Service, launching a career that would take him around the world representing U.S. interests.

After completing his training, Dinger served tours as a consular officer in London and in Rio de Janeiro. He was a staff assistant in the Bureau of Inter-American Affairs in Washington, D.C., and then in 1981 began the first of three tours in Japan, culminating in his service as consul general in Tokyo from 1998 to 2000. In between assignments in Japan, he served as a labor attaché in Johannesburg, South Africa, working with black labor unions during the fall of Apartheid; as Deputy Director of Japanese Affairs in Washington; and as Director of the Office of Press Relations in the Bureau of Public Affairs in Washington, where he advocated U.S. foreign policy positions to U.S. and foreign media. His office oversaw all major press events for the Department of State, held daily press briefings, managed press relations with dozens of reporters in the American and foreign press and prepared senior officials (including Secretaries Warren Christopher and Madeleine Albright) for those events.

In 2000, Dinger was appointed ambassador to Mongolia, which had transitioned in the previous decade from a Soviet satellite state to a stable democracy. He helped open markets to major American companies such as Boeing and Coca-Cola and negotiated with the Mongolian government over American foreign policy priorities. In a country that had only 300 miles of paved road, Ambassador Dinger traveled over 10,000 miles around the country, visiting each of the 21 provincial capitals twice.

Ambassador Dinger spent the rest of his career in key intelligence and political offices in Washington. From 2003 to 2005, he was the Deputy Coordinator for Counterterrorism, helping develop U.S. counterterrorism policy by representing the State Department in interagency debates over strategy, plans and operations. In 2005, he became a senior advisor in the Office of the Undersecretary for Political Affairs, the office overseeing all political issues for the State Department. From 2006 to 2012, Ambassador Dinger was the Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary for Intelligence and Research. Working under Secretaries of State Condoleezza Rice and Hillary Clinton, he oversaw a staff of 300 people who provided intelligence to inform the Secretary’s decision-making. He helped establish the department’s first Office of Cyber Affairs and was integral in forming principles to guide the diplomacy of cyberspace. After retiring from the Foreign Service in 2012, Ambassador Dinger continued to serve his country until 2017 by working as senior inspector in the Department’s Office of the Inspector General.

Ambassador Dinger’s career took him from a 900-person town in Iowa to positions of influence in Washington and posts around the world representing the United States. His commitment to public service may be rooted in this upbringing—his brother Larry was also an Ambassador, making them the first siblings in U.S. history to rise through the ranks of the Foreign Service to become ambassadors—but it was honed and encouraged at the University of Northern Iowa. Ambassador Dinger frequently visits with UNI students to share his career experiences and encourage them to pursue Foreign Service careers. He has lived a life in service to his country, influencing policy and trying to improve the lives of individuals around the world.

Upon the recommendation of the University Honorary Degrees Committee, the Faculty Senate and the president of the university, and with the unanimous consent of the Board of Regents, State of Iowa, it is the privilege of the University of Northern Iowa to present John R. Dinger for the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.
